A Coat Lined with Money.

A war correspondent writes: "Comedy goes side by side with tragedy here as everywhere, and even at a time like this men can laugh. A Jew who has come down from Aski-Saghras in a condition of much perplexity about the means to be adopted for the recovery of a stolen coat. Anticipating evil times in Aski-Saghras, the Jew had sown up his money in his heaviest fur overcoat, and with this held himself ready to leave town at any moment. Somehow when the dreaded time arrived he missed the coat and had to come down town here without it. Walking about the streets of Adrianople he described this very coat upon the shoulders of a big Circassian, with whom he entered into humble parley for its recovery, professing to have taken a great fancy for it, and offering a most un-Jew-like price for it. While he pretended to examine the fur he ascertained that the money remained undisturbed. The Circassian declined to sell and the Jew then put in a claim as owner of the coat, and succeeded in bringing the Circassian before the Governor of the town. The Governor declined to consider the Jew's claim 'proved,' and that hapless Hebrew is now following the Circassian like a second shadow, beseeching him with special iteration to strike a bargain. It rests on Rochefoucauld's authority that a man can always enjoy the misfortunes of his friends, and the friends of this especial Hebrew seem to find some consolation for their own sorrows in watching and laughing at the countless ruses and manoeuvres with which Jewish ingenuity inspires the hunter of the coat.

DON'T WANT WORK.—Six able bodied tramps, who slept at the police station in Quincy, Mass., a few nights ago, were offered in the morning by a granite contractor, a good breakfast and then work in the quarry for a month, with the additional promise that the best two should have work all winter. But they all straightway began to make excuses. One said that he had friends in New Bedford and he was anxious to get there; another was going to Boston, where he had a job; two had agreed to work for a woman who lived a short distance from the village, in return for the supper she had given them, and so on with all of them. They preferred to tramp about the country, begging their food and sleeping in barns, lock-ups, etc., to working for a living.

The supply of lithographic stone is rapidly falling off. Over $10,000,000 worth is consumed annually.

Cutting Out a Nerve to Cure Neuralgia.

For several years past Judge Bay of this city has been a great sufferer from facial neuralgia, and to avail himself from any benefit that may possibly result from a change of climate, spent most of 1873 in California, and the last part of 1874 in Colorado, without any material benefit, and on his return from Colorado, Dr. Hodgen cut out a little over one-half inch of the fifth facial nerve, and for seven or eight months the Judge experienced entire relief from the disease, but at the expiration of that time it gradually returned upon him with increased severity until life was almost unbearable. Dr. Hodgen became satisfied that the separate parts of the nerve had united, and he determined to perform a second operation; and on the 8th inst., at the residence of Judge Bay, 3,220 Chestnut street, and in the presence of several medical gentlemen, cut out two inches of the nerve, and removed several collateral branches. The operation lasted fifteen minutes, was exceedingly painful, and though the judge declined to take chloroform or any other opiate, he stood the knife without flinching. This operation has been rarely performed in the West, and from the proximity of the nerve to the eye requires great care and much skill. The judge has had no return of the neuralgia pains, and all the indications are that the operation will prove eminently successful, though it will probably be a week before he will be able to leave his house.—St. Louis Republican.

NECESSITY OF A LAW TO RESTRICT THE POWER OF TRUSTEES.—We do not believe that we have exaggerated the situation in urging upon the present Legislature the necessity of taking prompt action for the better protection of stockholders in mining corporations. The stupendous frauds committed by the late Board of Trustees of the Justice Company have done much to unsettle confidence in the mines and the market, and the door is opened for suspicion that their mismanagement in other companies as well. The stagnation now prevailing at the stock boards shows that the public will not participate in the market while such a stigma overhangs the mining industry. Something must be done to alleviate the condition of affairs, and we suggest that a move be made at Sacramento at once. From what has been developed in the Justice-Alta imbroglio it is plain that a law should be passed to restrict the power of Trustees, and make them individually responsible for their acts. They should be required to give bonds for the strict performance of their duty, and when about to make any important disposition of property the law should compel them to advertise a resolution of intention in the newspapers several weeks ahead of the special meeting, in order that stockholders could enter their protests if they were so disposed.—San Francisco Post.

AN UNLUCKY LOT.—A man picked up a purse in the street one day, and advertised the fact. In ten days he was visited by sixty-one men, women, boys and girls, all claiming to have lost money. The sum found was but eleven dollars; but of each visitor who called, the finder asked: "So you lost fifty dollars, did you?" Nine-tenths of the applicants promptly replied, "Yes, sir." "Ah," said he, yours was another purse."

In a discussion in Councils, while they were debating a proposition to supply a new style of lamp posts, one member got up and in a recently remarked that he, for one, had always found the old ones "good enough to stand by."

Can it be Done,

In California just now there seems to be an opinion that there are dishonest elements in the stock business. That is, that Trustees may make mistakes and lose the public investment; mills may be, through mistake, employed to crush country rock, and inaccurate directors may levy assessments when they should declare dividends. The stock journals stoutly condemn the thieving practice of small operators and intimate that they are casting discredit upon the entire business. The honest papers condemn the practice of gambling, as represented in the exchanges, and want legislation upon the subject; while the "live" papers condemn the thieves only because they bother the philanthropic efforts of the unselfish operators—Flood, O'Brien, Sharon and others.

We have at odd moments doubted whether these last loved the people with an unquestionable love, or only moderately, but our doubts have lately been cleared away, and we believe the live papers are right. Any man who is in the stock business and can't steal enough in the market ought to be punished. The market is maintained by the dear people especially for the speculators, and it is not astonishing that when highwaymen turn footpads, public indignation reaches fever heat. Of course in case of unexpected reverse, suspension, unfortunate deals, etc. A few assessments are the correct thing and no right minded stockholder ever objected, but this practice of crushing the country rock should be frowned down. It hinders the generous operations of good men like Flood, O'Brien, Sharon and McDonald, and casts suspicion upon the acts of men who work for the people and them alone.

These petty thieves must be put down, the sooner the better, and for that purpose a bill should be introduced defining and limiting the word "Trustee," and encouraging honor among thieves. Also a bill to discourage the crushing of country rock at public expense. These are the points which should be touched upon, but the question arises: "Can it be done."

Conkling's Victory.

Senator Conkling has succeeded in preventing confirmation of the President's New York appointments, and now the question as to Hayes' action in the premises demands consideration. Will he fight, surrender, or ask quarter? We are of the opinion that he will do neither. If the Senate shall continue to gratify Conkling's personal views at the President's expense, Hayes can at least withhold the exercise of the appointing power, and what result will that induce? Conkling having succeeded what has he won? Does his name stand higher with the people, or do they believe that he has used ability which belongs to the people in a very disgraceful squabble over matters of little public importance? Mr. Conkling will have occasion yet to wish himself out of the quarrel.

The most unreasonable people in the country live up on the Comstock. One Thomas Cullen, out of employment and feeling blue, diverted his mind for a few moments by battering Mrs. Cullen. They fined the unfortunate man $420 or 210 days in the shade.

It is very curious to notice how all of the papers shudder over the Justice swindle. It is also worthy of note that they enjoyed life as long as the swindlers were uppermost.

The Virginia Chronicle says that if the Justice deed holds, the bonanza mines might in the same way be deeded to the Joe Scates.

There will be fun if, as Secretary Evans intimates may be the case, the President should become disgusted by the reported rejection of his nominations and decide not to make any more for a few months. What a wall would go up from the grand army of office-seekers who are now besieging the capital.

Russia has, in the last six months, exported wheat to the value of over $13,000,000, against wheat to the value of $8,000,000 for the corresponding period last year. So, in spite of the war, she has had food enough for her own people and a handsome surplus for outside nations.

Sacramento.

Three Ballots for Senator in the Democratic Caucus.

[Correspondence San Francisco Post.] SACRAMENTO, Dec. 12th.

The senatorial candidates were driven into the caucus this afternoon like sheep to the shambles, to have their say, and a dreary exhibition it was, at best—Ryland in the van, McDonald in the middle and Dameron at the tail. To say that the addresses of nearly all the aspirants were flat, stale and unprofitable but vaguely expresses it. I have heard Bryant in the glare of the tar-barrels in front of Platt's Hall interject "have wants" and "have saws" into a Democratic speech faster than a mitrailleuse can dispatch bullets; I have heard Eugene Durphy wrestle for an hour and a half with a definition of Democracy; I have counted fifty "grand old De-mo-cra-tic party" in the brief space of half an hour; I have heard Captain Mullan satisfactorily explain in a two hours' speech how the Democratic party was the party of progress—yet I would at any time pit these four gentlemen against all the vaunted intellect that expounded Democratic principles on the floor of the Assembly this afternoon. There was a remarkable sameness about what they said. They were all in favor of the remonetization of silver; of an early resumption of specie payment; against subsidies of whatever kind or nature; for repressing the aggressions of corporations. They hurled themselves with the greatest force against Chinese immigration, and a good hour and a half was spent in detailing how they intended to rid the Pacific coast of the unmitigated evil when they got to Washington. Ryland led off, and it was the general opinion that next to Hager he produced the best impression. McDonald followed and surprised his friends by his clearness and eloquence of statement. Farley came next, and, in turn, was followed by Hager, whose effort was the most scholarly, and Dameron wound up with a speech which nobody wanted to hear except the unfortunates in caucus. Ryland spoke principally to the charge that his political record was inconsistent, and with the exception of a brief period, when he admitted having gone into the Know-nothing ranks, claimed to have always been a sincere pure Bourbon. His connection with Dolly Vardenism in 1873 was plausibly accounted for on the ground that he wanted to split up the Republican party. McDonald confined himself principally to the Chinese evil, to the abatement of which he asserted he had done not a little, and threw a sop to the Granger element by promising to direct his efforts to secure the abrogation of the excessive tax on burlaps. He also alluded to the vinicultural interests of the State, and pledged himself to look after them in Washington. Farley opened with a shot at Ryland, stating that his political record was so well known that he had no occasion to defend it, but immediately began a vigorous defense of his railroad record.

THE RESULT OF THE BALLOTING TO-NIGHT has still further complicated matters, and no one is inclined to hazard a prediction as to how it will end. Hager's unexpected strength has taken everybody by surprise, and his large following is ascribed to his strong anti-railroad speech. All that element in the caucus which has hitherto been regarded as uncommitted to any of the candidates, has gone over to Hager solid. The steadfastness with which it adhered to him will have the effect of solidifying it, and if there should happen to be a defection in the ranks of any other candidate, and Hager thereby gain; it is not looked upon as improbable that he may prove an easy victor. It is admitted now that the third ballot showed the real strength of the different candidates. Surprise is everywhere expressed that Farley should not have developed more strength. The candidates all dread Farley's resources, and he is admitted to be the wildest, shrewdest manipulator of the lot. Randall did not come up to the anticipations of his friends with the southern delegation, but those conversant with his fight assert that they knew of his weakness in that quarter. It is commented upon as A STRONG EVIDENCE OF FARLEY'S WEAKNESS.

That with all the backing of the administration he was only able to scare up 20 votes. Ryland's friends say that there is not the slightest danger of a single defection among his 21 votes on the third ballot. McDonald, too, claims to have his votes well in hand, although both Farley and Ryland proclaim that he will soon break up. There is little reason to apprehend that if McDonald does break down his strength will go to Hager, as the latter is unpopular with that portion of the San Francisco delegation which is for McDonald. In that event Ryland will probably get the majority of the vote. The rest will go to Farley. On the other hand, Hager is popular in the interior, and should Ryland give way first, the bulk of his vote, it is believed, will go to Hager, eventually narrowing the issue to Farley and Hager. As matters now stand, it is difficult to say what a day may bring forth, and there are not a few old politicians who declare their belief that the whole business will be settled in the next forty-eight hours. It is reported tonight around the hotels that Haight will be nominated in the caucus tomorrow. The effect of such movement will be to draw away votes from Hager. In all the possible combinations talked of, Farley, despite his lack of strength in caucus, figures as the strong man. The friends of each of the candidates say that the issue is between Farley and their man, although in the same breath they assert that Farley cannot win. All the candidates are hard at work, and the evidences are abundant that combinations are being put up, but it is too early to give any definite intelligence regarding them. To-morrow very likely something definite will be known.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

What's the Matter Now?

A Human Skull Dug Up on Commercial Row—Who Claims It?—Mysterious Hints.

This morning John Courtney who is engaged in laying a stone walk between Hagerman's store and the railroad crossing, exhumed a human skull while digging a trench one foot deep. The skull was badly shattered, and Courtney broke it in digging, taking it at first sight to be a rock. The parts, however, all fit perfectly, and the curiosity turns out a human skull. Quite a crowd collected about the spot, and we happened along shortly after the skull was brought to light. Various conjectures were indulged in regard to the possessor of the brain-box in question. The bones were very thick, although they had lain in the ground for some time, and from the appearance of the shattered portions the owner had evidently been killed by blows inflicted by some blunt instrument. The opinion of bystanders was in favor of assigning the skull to a woman, but this opinion was not substantiated, and others believed that it was a relic of the Pliocene age. McFarlin said that he saw the curiosity hanging on a fence near the slaughter yard, and M. J. Smith didn't know, but thought it might be a visitation of Providence. Another unfeeling wretch, who is always making suggestions when they are not needed, believed that Courtney had picked it up and laid it in the street. We should like to know whether a man is very likely to pick up human skulls about town, and if so where they came from. The above suggestions however are all clearly at fault, we are of the opinion that some foul deed has been committed and we call upon the murderer to come forward and give us the item. And above all we would suggest to our officers that this practice of burying skulls in the public street ought to be promptly suppressed. A murderer can't always be punished, but he can at least be taught to respect the rights of property. If our officers would make this a personal matter and arrest the first offender they would deserve well at the hands of our citizens, and the habit could be checked. The fact remains, however, that the skull was found and is now at the Gazette office. The owner will please pay advertising charges, and take his property.

MARRIAGE BELLS.—Last evening Odd Fellows' Hall was the scene of a social event which united two lives and fortunes for all time. Charles W. Jones and Mrs. A. J. Grover were united in matrimony by Rev. W. C. Gray, in presence of many friends and acquaintances of the contracting parties. The toilets displayed were rich and tasteful, congratulations numerous, and the good cheer which followed, abundant and excellent. The ceremony was performed at 9 p. m. and shortly afterward music was added to the attractions and a social dance was inaugurated. In good season the light fantastic was exhausted and the party adjourned to the comfortable home of the happy couple and discussed the good things prepared for their guests. Heartly congratulations were again extended with much warmth and at 12 m. the last guest had departed, leaving bright wishes for the home and health of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jones.

Several handsome presents were sent in by friends of the happy pair, and we noticed among the guests the following: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Sessions, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Sessions, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Borland, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Powning, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kinkead, W. R. Chamberlain, I. Chamberlain, J. F. Meyers, C. A. Richardson, E. J. Verrill, and others whose names we do not recall. The affair was pleasant in every respect, and we hope it was only a foretaste of the life to come.

THE CREAL FURNACE.—We are informed that the iron work for the new furnace arrived and is now in place. The furnace is then completed, and the drying out process having been completed, ore will be forthcoming for a test of the furnace's powers. We hope very much that the inventor may succeed in demonstrating the soundness of his views.

Meals at all hours at the Saddle Rock, Commercial Row, Reno Nevada.

The Bohemian Girl.

The entertainment announced for last evening at Smith's Academy of Music was not a circus and hence it was not expected that the strength of the town and county would be represented, but the attendance fell far short of what the troupe's merits should have secured. "The Bohemian Girl," by Balfe, was put upon the stage in very creditable manner. Madame Bernard as Arline did not impress us as favorably as upon her first appearance here in "Martha," but the performance was still highly creditable, and the differences in effect are ascribed to the acoustic properties of the two halls. Frank Howard as Devilshoof looked like a Washoe Indian struck by lightning, and made himself very acceptable to the audience by his spirited acting. Makin, as Florenstein, was a good actor, and Gates, tenor, in the role of Thaddeus, made the best hit of the evening. Mr. Gates has a very pleasant voice and sings with some regard to melody, instead of trilling and turning somersaults upon the high notes. His solo "Then You'll Remember Me" was very effective and deserved an encore. Gates reminds us very much of Drew, formerly with Mrs. Oates, and his singing alone should fill the house to-night. "Fra Diavolo," by Meyerbeer, is announced for this evening and we hope to see a better house. The remainder of the company were reasonably good, with the exception of one lady who was so much amused that her part suffered in consequence. The troupe deserves a handsome patronage this evening.

THE COURSE.—Prof. Gunning has announced as the subject of his lecture on Monday night, "Life Before Man." Five other lectures are to follow, on dates to be hereafter announced, the titles of which read as follows: Second lecture—"Man in the Geologic Period; Man's Beginning and Antiquity." Third lecture—"Origin of Animals; Darwinism in the Light of Discoveries on the Pacific Slope." Fourth lecture—"Origin of Man." Fifth lecture—"Origin of the Races of Men." Sixth lecture—"Origin and History of Silver and Gold—The Comstock Lode." The price of tickets for the course is fixed at $3 for one, or two tickets for $5. Admission to single lecture, fifty cents.

AT IT AGAIN.—We had occasion, lately, to publish one Allen, a confidence man, who departed with a small amount of coin which his unscrupulous industry had gleaned from some Reno innocents. It seems now that the same man has turned up in Newcastle, where he is playing similar games, having secured possession of a man's homestead near that place. A citizen of that town having heard of the compliments tendered to Mr. Allen, by the Gazette, writes for a copy, and will probably provide quarters for the land shark down on the island.

PERSONAL.—This morning our office was invaded by a detachment from Osman Pasha's army under command of C. F. McGlashan, R. P. Ferguson and Charley Dunn. The Bashi-Bazouks looked as well as could be expected, and said they came down on legal business. Their last stopping place was Truckee, whither they will soon return.

MEAT SHIPPING.—The process of shipping dressed meat in refrigerator cars will be commenced in a few days. Two car loads are to be shipped tomorrow, and the machinery was in motion to-day. Everything worked to a notch and beef fell very rapidly.

OUR MISTAKE.—The Enterprise takes this means of setting us right upon the ancient status of Washoe:

In referring to the fact that the wood business has come to an end in Washoe City, the Reno Gazette is depraved enough to say: "Washoe was, in the old days, a prospective metropolis, when Jack Foulks, C. C. Goodwin, G. W. Cassidy and J. C. Lewis were Aldermen of the city. But these large-hearted men stunted its growth, and washoe has declined, something like the Roman Empire did, for years past." We beg to correct the Gazette. Cassidy did not live there. The people killed everybody who ventured near Washoe in those halcyon days who entertained such political opinions as Cassidy did at that time. Judge Flack, Joe Jones and William Webster were the only Democrats of the ultra stripe who were excepted from the foregoing rule, and they were allowed to remain simply as curiosities. And then the Roman Empire declined because of the sins of its people, whereas Washoe retrograded simply because her people were too virtuous to compete with the men of Reno.

Gossip about the silver question.—Washington, Dec. 13th.—Matthews intends to force action on his silver resolution before recess. A member of the syndicate said to-day that no sales of four per cent. bonds are being made, and that the syndicate regrets its late subscription of $10,000,000. The subscription was made immediately after the President sent in his message, with the expectation that the President's views would influence the Senate and prevent the passage of an extreme silver bill. The insinuation is thrown out that Matthews' silver resolution was introduced in the Senate with the consent of the President, who desires an express opinion by both branches of Congress on the question of paying the public debt in silver. The story is not entirely credited, but it comes from excellent authority. It is also part of the story that if both branches of Congress pass Matthews' resolution, the President will then be in a position where he can decline to veto the silver bill, but allow it to become a law without his signature. Ex-Senator Boutwell, who has had an interview with the President is satisfied that the President will veto the pending bill if it is passed.

How to Do It.—Now we come back to say the country will be relieved of the pressure upon it, and good times come again—as they were before the rebellion—when we return to the economy and the industry of that period; and there is no other remedy—no other means of restoration, and there never was, and there never can be any other. The man who raises a bushel of potatoes, cuts a ton of hay, makes a pair of shoes, catches a cod-fish, turns a tree into timber, or digs a piece of ore that will yield a dollar, is doing something to the desired end; and those classes alone are doing it. Increase them, encourage them; make them prosperous; and the sunlight will break through the clouds and better days dawn upon us. —Newburyport Herald.
